

American Indian Heritage Month planning committee collecting clothing donations

L&I's American Indian Heritage Month planning committee will collect donations for Native Americans living in third-world conditions on reservations.

The committee will accept essential items, including blankets, clothing and hygiene products. Employees can deliver donations to the L&I Library or designated boxes in the Tumwater building rotunda starting November 1.

"As the seasons change, this time of year can be difficult for members of our community, and this is especially true for our nation's First Peoples," committee member Brian Frisina said. The committee will give all donations for Goodthinking 4 All Our Relations in Olympia.
